

Health Assistance service

Answers to day-to-day health questions are just a phone call away!

Everybody needs reliable health information and advice. So why not give your employees access to a direct line they can call for answers to their health questions? Our Health Assistance service offers exactly that.

Our Health Assistance service puts practical information and reliable advice on healthcare issues at your employees' fingertips.

Healthcare professionals there for your employees

Our team of experts can be reached from anywhere at any time, day or night, to answer questions about various topics such as physical fitness, nutrition, childcare, vaccinations and regional healthcare resources.

From prevention tips to dealing with minor emergencies, your employees will get the information they need when they need it. For example, our experts can help them:

- find out what precautions to take when starting a fitness program
- care for a baby who wakes up with a fever in the middle of the night
- get information about seasonal flu shots
- find eldercare for an aging parent

A service that benefits you and your employees

Employee well-being has a direct impact on your company's bottom line. Employees who have the tools they need to deal with stress and other everyday challenges miss work less often and are more productive.

The Health Assistance service is automatically available to all employees and dependants insured under our extended healthcare and drug insurance benefits. This confidential, multilingual telephone service gives them free access to all the information they need, 24/7.

Help is at your fingertips, all the time!
